SANITARIUM.

This is an establishment in which provision is made for the rational application of the principal appliances employed in Movement cure, Water-cure and Electro-cure.

These agents are employed in combination or alternation; with a careful scrutiny in regard to the requirements of each particular case. It cannot be said of them. that "If they do no good they can do no harm."

Chronic inflammations and nervous derangements are found to yield to these agencies in some cases in which medicine alone is inadequate.

Deformities and debilities are treated by surgical operations and mechanical appliances when necessary, and also by bathing, friction, movements and electrical excitation.

It is a home for persons undergoing surgical treatment, enabling them to be constantly under the supervision of skilled attendants.

It is intended that this enterprise shall be in the future, as in the past, so conducted as to secure the confidence of the Medical Profession.
